

Mammalian taxa are excluded from g and h: they appear as sources because a compound was measured in milk, breath or body odour, not synthesised there.